To the manager of Taco Tacontento :

I am writing to bring to your attention a serious issue I had in your establishment last week. I ordered a vegetarian bean burrito, and halfway through my meal, I bit into what turned out to be a chicken bone.

I am a vegetarian, and the presence of bone in my burrito was jarring. I showed the bone to the staff, who offered to make me a new burrito with the same beans the bone presumably came from. I did not want to risk eating any meat or finding another bone, so I asked for a taco salad instead.

I am a regular customer at your restaurant, and I have never had any problems with your food in the past. While I am relatively certain this was a fluke, I am still concerned about how the bone got into the beans. I would like to know how this might have happened.

I am also concerned with the lack of understanding I received from the staff member who helped me. I don't know if she was working alone or merely misunderstood my request, but she refused to let me speak to her supervisor while I was in the restaurant. I felt she acted very unprofessionally.

I hope to hear back from you about this incident. I can be reached by phone at (555)867-5309 at any time or by email at mhoss@mailclient.com.

Sincerely,
Marilyn Hoss

Ragunan Zoo : Not yet a world class attraction

The city administration offered Ragunan Zoo in South Jakarta the financial support it needed to become a world-class tourist destination, but the offer was refused by the management.

Governor Joko “Jokowi” Widodo offered to disburse up to Rp 500 billion (US$45,5 million) for the project, with the only requirement being a master plan that would be valid for a century.

“The preparation to make the blueprint and macro design for the zoo should start now. The administration is ready to release the funds as long as there is a clear program,” he said on the sidelines of the public dialogue at the zoo on Tuesday.

The newly installed zoo supervisor, business tycoon Hashim Djojohadikusumo, declined the offer, saying that blueprint could only be formulated next year.

He further insisted “ we can request budget funds the following year once we finish collecting public feed back.”

Zoo director Marsawitri Gumay said that the zoo was in dire need of more funds to improve infrastructure, such as animal enclosures.

On regular days, the 147-hectare zoo is visited by around 3,000 people, this number rises to 20,000 people on weekends and can reach 60,000 during school holidays. During peak seasons, such as Idul Fitri, visitors can number over 140,000 each day.

“With such a tight budget, we cannot make infrastructure improvements. Most of enclosures need to be replaced, not to mention street vendors who enter the zoo and littering visitors,” Marsawitri said.

The following text is for questions 23 to 25.

Kaka was born in Brazilia. From age 4 to 7, his family lived in Cuiaba, following his father, a civil engineer. At age 7, the family moved to the city of Sao Paulo, in the neighborhood of Morumbi, near the stadium of Sao Paulo FC. As FIFA says, "Kaka fails to fit the Brazilian stereo type of the kid from the favela who first played the game in the street with a ball made from rags. Coming from comfortable and cultured family, Kaka kept up his studies as long as they were compatible with his profession."

His talent was soon recognized. A professor called the family and suggested enrolling him in a football school. At age 8, Kaka was playing with Sao Paulo FC, where he succeeded in all categories. At age 14, Kaka used to wake up two hours early, to keep up with his studies. Kaka managed to conclude the intermediary cycle (eleven years) in Brazil, before dedicating exclusively to football.

In 2006, only 24 years old, Kaka was one of the main Brazilian players in the World Cup. Despite the abundance of good players, coach Carlos Alberto Parreira already said that Kaka would start as a principle. The groups formed by Kaka, Ronaldinho, Ronaldo and Adriano was called "the Magic Square" by Brazilian media fans.

23. Having recognized Kaka's talent, the professor suggested that ... in the football school.

All butterflies have “complete metamorphosis”. To grow into an adult they go through its stages and each stage has a different goal.

A butterfly starts life as a very small, round, oval or cylindrical egg. The coolest thing about butterfly eggs, especially monarch butterfly eggs, is that if you look close enough you can actually see the tiny caterpillar growing inside of it. Butterfly eggs are usually laid on the leaves of plants, so if you are actively searching for these very tiny eggs, you will have to take some time and examine quite a few leaves in order to find some.

When the egg hatches, the caterpillar will start his work and eat the leaf they were born onto. This is really important because the mother butterfly needs to lay her eggs on certain type of leaf which the caterpillar will eat – each type of caterpillar likes only certain types of leaves. Since they are tiny and cannot travel to a new plant, the mother caterpillar needs to hatch its egg on the kind of leaf it wants to eat. Caterpillars need to eat and eat so they can grow quickly. When a caterpillar is born, they are extremely small. When they start eating, they instantly start growing and expanding. Their exoskeleton (skin) does not stretch or grow, so they grow by “molting” (shedding the outgrown skin) several times while it is growing.

The pupa stage is one of the coolest stages of a butterfly’s life. As soon as a caterpillar has reached its full length or weight, it changes itself into a pupa, also known as a chrysalis. This is the stage of developing.

Finally, when the caterpillar has fully grown adult if you are lucky, you will see an adult butterfly emerge. When the butterfly emerges from the chrysalis, both of the wings are soft and folded against its body. The butterfly will be able to fly after the blood circulation reaches its wings.

26. The text is about
- A. the growth of a butterfly
 - B. the characteristics of a butterfly
 - C. fully grown butterfly
 - D. the lifecycle of a butterfly
 - E. the reproductive system of a butterfly
27. What will happen if the caterpillar has reached its full weight and length? It will
- A. lay eggs
 - B. start eating
 - C. search for food
 - D. form a chrysalis
 - E. emerge a beautiful butterfly
28. Why does the mother butterfly choose to lay her eggs on certain place?
- A. To make the mother butterfly feel comfortable.
 - B. To make the caterpillar feel comfortable.
 - C. To make the eggs hatch soon.
 - D. To make the eggs safe.
 - E. To make the caterpillar find food easily.

29. "When the butterfly emerges from the chrysalis, ..." (Paragraph 5)

The similar meaning of the underlined word is

- A. removes
- B. appears
- C. attends
- D. breaks

The text is for questions 30 to 32.

Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, the prosecution will prove to you that he is the accused. He had the motives, opportunity and ability to commit the crime and this will be shown in the evidence presented to you.

Firstly, the accused needed money. He was in debt, owing the bank over $100.000. He had no chance of repaying this: therefore, he needed quick money. That's why he stole the Macquire Diamond.

Secondly, the accused had the opportunity. As a security guard he could come and go from the exhibition of the diamond without causing suspicion. He had a plenty of time on the night of the robbery to take the diamond, hide it and then return to his post before the next guard came on duty.

Finally, the accused had the ability to take the Macquire Diamond. He had knowledge of the alarm system and had keys to unlock the display case. On this evidence you have no other choice but to find him guilty.

30. What is the topic of the text?
- A. Diamond robbery.
 - B. Eyewitness evidence.
 - C. Address to the jury.
 - D. Macquire Diamond.
 - E. Guilty security.
31. The prosecution proves that the security guard was guilty because
- A. Macquire Diamond is very expensive
 - B. He was on duty when the diamond was stolen
 - C. He had got big amount of money
 - D. He had the diamond with him
 - E. He broke the alarm system
32. What is the main idea of the second paragraph?
- A. Why the Mcquire Diamond was stolen.
 - B. Where the security guard hide the diamond.
 - C. The security guard is proven to be in the need of the money.
 - D. The accused owes the company over $150.000.
 - E. Stealing Macquire Diamond makes the accused pays his debt.

It is probably one of the most important books I've ever read. Not for its heavy philosophy, practical instructions, or memorable quotes; but for its simple message of how wonderful life can be when viewed through the eyes of an innocent child.

Each story is only a page or two, a delightful narrative of how Totto-chan views the world, and how Mr. Kuroyanagi inspires the children to explore, learn, feel and have joy. There are several charcoal drawings that capture the tenderness of the stories, making us feel a part of Totto-chan's world.

One of my favorite vignettes is the story of losing her hat in the septic tank at the school, and proceeds to dig it out. The headmaster walks by, and after a few questions to satisfy his curiosity, and hearing her earnest explanations, he lets her continue with the simple instruction, "make sure you put it all back!"

Totto-chan, The Little Girl at the Window is a celebration of childhood, learning and caring. We've enjoyed reading one or two stories for bedtime off-and-on for a couple of years, and almost don't want to finish the book because it will mean there are no more stories. Totto-chan seems so real and loveable, and her headmaster is a role model for parents and teachers.

The book is written by Tetsuko Kuroyanagi and translated by Dorothy Britton.

33. What is the text about?
- A. A summary of children biography.
 - B. The novel of Totto-chan.
 - C. Children's activities.
 - D. A description of Mr. Kuroyanagi.
 - E. The headmaster and teachers.
34. Totto-chan, The Little Girl at the Window is a story
- A. of an innocent children
 - B. containing philosophy of life
 - C. that teaches us that life is actually wonderful
 - D. that motivates children to explore the world
 - E. that describes good headmasters and teachers.
35. According to the text, who inspires the children enjoying their childhood?
- A. Tetsuko Kuroyanagi.
 - B. The teachers.
 - C. The headmaster.
 - D. Dorothy Britton.
 - E. The little girl.

To Kill a Mockingbird

By Harper Lee

Warner Books

Reviewed by Rodman Phillbrick

I've never been to Alabama, but novelist Harper Lee made me feel as if I had been there in the long, hot summer of 1935, when a lawyer named Atticus Finch decided to defend an innocent black man accused of a horrible crime. The story of how the whole town reacted to the trial is told by the lawyer's daughter, Scout, who remembers exactly what it was like to be eight years old in 1935, in Maycomb, Alabama.

Scout is the reason I loved this book, because her voice rings so clear and true. Not only does she make me see the things she sees, she makes me feel the things she feels. There's a lot more going on than just the trial, and Scout tells you all about it.

A man called Boo Radley lives next door. Very few people have ever seen Boo, and Scout and her friends have a lot of fun telling scary stories about him. The mystery about Boo Radley is just one of the reasons you want to keep turning the pages to find out what happens in To Kill a Mockingbird.

To Kill a Mockingbird is filled with interesting characters like Dill, and Scout makes them all seem just as real as the people in your own hometown. Here's how Scout describes Miss Caroline, who wore a red-striped dress: "She looked and smelled like a peppermint drop."

The larger theme of the story is about racial intolerance, but Scout never tries to make it a "lesson," it's simply part of the world she describes. That's why To Kill a Mockingbird rings true, and why it all seems so real.

Even though the story took place many years ago, you get the idea that parts of it could happen today, in any town where people distrust and fear each other's differences.

In a just world an innocent man should be found not guilty. But if you want to know what this particular jury finally decides and what happens to Scout and Jem and Dill and Boo Radley and the rest of the people who live and breathe in To Kill a Mockingbird, you'll have to read the book.

36. Who is the writer of the Novel "To Kill a Mockingbird" ?

This text is for questions 39.

Globalization has been around for a long time in one shape or another. Trade routes have been operating between different parts of the world since ancient times. Now, globalization has extended into other sectors. However, people view its merits differently. The followers of globalization believe that productivity grows in countries that open up their markets and integrate with outside economies as they gain access to wealthy economies where they can sell their goods and services. Next, lesser developed nations benefit from the increase in investment from foreign countries both financially and through jobs. Finally, through globalization, countries can specialize more in what they produce and what they do best. The opponents of globalization have their views, first, wages and working conditions everywhere are pushed downwards as companies gravitate towards countries where the wages are the lowest and the workers' rights are the worst. In addition, the environment suffers, as production moves to places where they have less strict rules and regulations about controlling pollution and deforestation. Most seriously, globalization undermines national sovereignties and national governments as individual countries become increasingly at the mercy of international markets, and multinational corporations grow more powerful and influential.

39. How can globalization potentially damage environment?
- A. Production of goods pays little attention to natural balances.
 - B. Foreign investment tends to put heavy economic benefits.
 - C. Lands of developing countries are excessively cultivated.
 - D. Irresponsibly mutational factories dump the sewage.
 - E. Industries tend to occupy areas with weak laws.

There is a lot of research on both humans and animals on the effects of caffeine, and there is often thought that too much is bad for us. There is no conclusive evidence to implicate caffeine consumption as being significantly harmful to health, but there still is controversy with this, as there is still some negative effects associated with caffeine consumption. Having some caffeine daily is okay, but using food and exercise strategies listed below will certainly help in reducing fatigue and avoiding caffeine addiction.

Caffeine is a central nervous stimulant and can have some positive effects on the humans body. Caffeine in low dosed is thought to be associated with an improvement in sporting performance, increased alertness and reduction in fatigue potentially lifting a person's mood. Coffe and tea also contain some antioxidants which have positive effects on heart health.

However, increased amounts of caffeine lead to dependency due to increased tolerance and hence the need for greater amounts to gain the same stimulatory benefits. Heavy users who gave to go without can experience withdrawal symptoms such as headaches and fatigue. Too much caffeine can produce restlessness, nausea, and cardiac

40. What is the writer's opinion about the text?
- A. Consuming too much coffe is not good for our health.
 - B. Caffeine consumption is significantly harmful to health.
 - C. Drinking coffee everyday makes us addicted to it.
 - D. Daily coffee consumption leads to hearth attack.
 - E. Caffeine can stimulate user's mood and energy

Water pollution has been increasing at a worrying rate. If consumed in a contaminated state, it may prove fatal to both - human beings and the environment. Let us find out how this pollution affects the ecological balance and poses a threat to our lives. First, it is agricultural pollution. Excess fertilizers, pesticides, and insecticides used for agricultural procedures often get discharged in water bodies right from streams to lakes and seas. Another way water pollution happens is mining activities. During mining, the rock strata is crushed with the help of heavy equipment on a large scale. These rocks are often composed of sulfides and heavy metals, which when combined with water form sulfuric acid and other harmful pollutants. Next, it happens through the so-called sewage water. The leftover or excess water that is left after carrying out domestic and industrial activities is called sewage water which consists of a lot of chemicals, and is left untreated. People flushing medicines and other chemical substances down the toilet has been a cause of concern for the developed countries today. Also, the burning of fossil fuels is another source.

42. The main idea of the text is
- A. the level of water pollution is determined by its pollutant
 - B. there are different ways for water to be polluted
 - C. most water around us is heavily polluted
 - D. water pollution takes different forms
 - E. water pollution happens every where

This text is for questions 43 and 44.

There are many kinds of cactus plants, but most grow in deserts and other dry places. These plants have adaptations, or special features, that let them live in places where there is little water.

Imagine only having to take one big drink of water two or three times a year! That's all the water a cactus plants needs. The cactus is made up mostly of stems and roots. Most kinds of cactus have no leaves or leaves that are very small. The cactus is made for storing water, and water can escape through leaves.

The roots of a cactus spread out close to the surface of the ground. When it rains, the roots soak up as much water as possible. Cactus plants do not close to one another. Each plant needs lots of room to collect water. The stem of the cactus stores the water for the later use.

When spring rains fall on the desert, the cactus plants bloom. Beautiful yellow, red, orange, and white flowers appear on cactus plants. These flowers grow singly rather than in bunch.

43. After reading the text we know that
- A. Cactus keeps water in its stem
 - B. Cactus can only grow in deserts
 - C. All kinds of cactus have no flowers
 - D. All kinds of cactus have no leaves
 - E. Cactus drinks water during wet season

44. When it rains, the roots soak up as much water as possible. (Paragraph 3)
